A Noteworthy Collective Absence

Six Arrowmen attended Winter Camp I in 1977. Three of them—Steve Donohue, Jeff Rand, & Doug Wilson— have not missed any Winter Camps since and are present here at Winter Camp XLIII.

On Day Two, beginning at approximately 3:17 WCST, all three of them were out of camp attending the funeral of Margaret Osvath, mother of Mike Osvath, who was also at Winter Camp I. For the 4½ or so hours that they were away, and for the first time in Winter Camp's 43-year history, there was no one at Winter Camp who had attended Winter Camp I.

Winter Camp proved its resilience by thriving without these pioneers.

Alimentary Endings

Winter Camp XLIII's only Continental Breakfast was rescheduled to Day Three due to the correct prediction the night before of significant morning rain. There was considerable culinary innovation at this year's low-effort meal, as waffles, carbonated Tang, and Tang-flavored grits made their debut on the cumulative Winter Camp menu.
